His Lordship the Bishop of Damaun pontificated at a High Mass, which commenced at 10 o'clock. The church was tastefully decorated and the attendance of the congregation was large, the number of the priests specially being over 25. The Vicar of the Church of St. Andrew at Bandora delivered the sermon. The select choir performed their part with satisfaction, and the excellent music was in keeping with the general splendour of the occasion, which was one of the best that had for a long time been seen in that church.

THE THEFT AT DELISLE ROAD.—Ameer Jamsha alias Hassim was on Saturday last brought up on remand and charged by Inspector Holdway at the Girgaum Police Court with stealing articles of wearing apparel and five copper cooking utensils, of the collective value of Rs. 64-6, the property of Fakoo Mahomed Joosub, from his shop at the DeLisle Road, on the 7th instant. The complainant had left his shop in charge of his son, a boy about 9 years of age, and had gone out. On his return he found the articles of wearing apparel and the copper vessels missing, and reported his loss to the police on the following day. The police upon enquiries suspected the accused, as he was the only person that had entered complainant's shop during his absence, and took him into custody. The property was then traced to a Marwarree, with whom accused had pledged the articles. The accused in his defence stated that he had no knowledge of taking the property, or pledging them with the Marwarree, as he was drunk on the date in question. Accused was convicted, and sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment.

DRUGGED AND ROBBED.—At the Girgaum Police Court on Saturday last Luchmon Bhootani and Luchmon Venkatswamy, two low-caste Hindoos, were brought up on remand and charged by Inspector Cobb before Mr. P. Ryan with having on the 6th instant stolen some gold and silver ornaments from a woman named Luxmee, and also a bundle of clothing belonging to the same woman, of the collective value of Rs. 168. It appears the woman Luxmee, while on her way home from Parel, was met by the two accused at the Parel railway station. They persuaded her to come to their house at Parel to partake of some tea, and on her going thither, instead of giving her tea, they gave her some country liquor. Soon after drinking she fell sound asleep, and continued so until the following morning, when she awoke and found that she had been robbed of all her ornaments, and the bundle of clothes which she had with her also had disappeared. She at once reported the matter to the police, and the two accused were arrested. Inspector Cobb, on instituting enquiries, traced the stolen property to the possession of Marwarrees at Parel, Cammateepoora, and Muddunpoora, pledged by the two accused. Luchmon Bhootani and Luchmon Venkatswamy, on pleading guilty to the charge, were convicted and sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment each.

HIGH COURT.—APPELLATE SIDE.

THE KEEPING OF BILLIARD SALOONS.

THE following rules for the regulation of billiard saloons in Poona were lately drawn up by Mr. W. A. East, District Magistrate, under the provisions of clause 6, section 19, of Regulation XII. of 1827, and sent for the approval and information of the High Court. The notice and rules were as follows:—

It having been brought to the notice of the District Magistrate of Poona that rules are necessary for the regulation of the billiard saloons in the city and cantonment of Poona and its suburbs, it is hereby ordered under the provisions of Regulation XII. of 1827, section 16:—

1. That a licence from the District Magistrate be taken out before any public billiard saloon be opened in the city and cantonment of Poona and its suburbs.

2. That the license shall run for one year from January 1, but may be withdrawn within that period at the discretion of the District Magistrate if the billiard saloon be ill-conducted, the resort of bad or disorderly characters, or for any other cause.

3. That the billiard saloon be open only at such times as are specified in the license.

On the first reference their lordships said: Having doubts whether the law allows the Magistrate to forbid any person from keeping a billiard room, and considering that it only enables him to regulate its use, the District Magistrate should be asked whether the rule requiring license is based on any law or rule having the force of law. As a point out that the Magistrate may make rules to regulate as provided in Regulation XII., section 19, clause 1, and that the Regulation clause 6 requires the written notice to be fixed and kept at such places as may be best adopted to convey information to the public, &c. In reply the District Magistrate said that the wording of section 19, clause 1, seemed sufficiently wide to justify the issue of licenses as a means of indicating whether or not a particular place should be allowed to be used as a billiard saloon by a particular person. The licenses serve no fiscal purpose, being issued free of cost except as regards an eight-anna stamp on the agreement required from the licensee. And that it also enabled the District Magistrate to regulate the hours at which certain specified places are to be open, and would, therefore, seem to empower him to prevent their opening at all, should this be likely to injuriously affect the public benefit or comfort. That the effects of a billiard saloon depended much upon the character of the person who kept it, and that it seemed a less harsh measure to require individuals to take out licenses in the first instance than to allow them to open their billiard saloons and then close them by injunction under clause 6. And that, therefore, he was induced to take action under Regulations as the only legal provision bearing upon the case, it having been represented that a considerable increase of billiard saloons in Poona and the lax manner in which they were conducted was becoming a serious evil from the point of view of public order and morality. On receipt of this their Lordships, after a further consideration of the points at issue, said we are of opinion that the Regulation XII. of 1827 does not empower the District Magistrate to forbid the keeping of billiard saloons, or to require that the keeper receive a license. Such power can only be conferred by legislation. The power of the Magistrate is confined to the regulation of such places. He cannot under section 19, Regulation XII. of 1827, insist on a licence being taken out previous to their establishment, and no other section applies. The Court must, therefore, forbid the proclamation.

THE SOUTHERN MAHRATTA SPINNING AND WEAVING COMPANY, LIMITED.

MR. RAGOONATH N. KHOTE presided at the eighth ordinary general meeting of the Southern Mahratta Spinning and Weaving Company, Limited, which was held on Saturday at the registered office of the company at Henshaw's Buildings, in Marine Street.

The director's report was read as follows:—We have pleasure in submitting the audited account for the year ending 30th June 1889. Considering the higher cost of cotton during that period, the results obtained will, we trust, be considered satisfactory. We are glad to add that our yarn continues to be much appreciated by the consumers in our districts. From the statement of profit and loss, it will be seen that the net earnings for the year amount to Rs. 1,21,205-2-8, or, including the balance of Rs. 8,095-2-0, carried forward last year, Rs. 1,29,300-4-8. An ad interim dividend of Rs. 12-8-0 per share, amounting to Rs. 29,862-8-0 was paid in February, and we have transferred Rs. 28,064-3-2 to depreciation fund account, Rs. 5,000 to preliminary expenses account, and Rs. 15,000 to share brokerage account. We now propose to pay a further dividend of Rs. 12-8-0 per share (i.e. 10 per cent. for the year), absorbing Rs. 29,862-8-0, and to transfer the balance, Rs. 21,511-1-6 to the credit of reserve fund for the equalization of dividends, &c. In our last annual report we stated that we had ordered machinery to increase our total spindles to fully 20,000. Subsequently it was deemed advisable to reduce the order somewhat, and we have now in all 18,960 spindles at work. The buildings and machinery and stock of cotton and yarns are insured for Rs. 784,000.

Mr. Bassapa, Hubli, retires from the board, and does not seek re-election. But, as it is some advantage to the company to have a director resident of Hubli, we recommend that Mr. Raghvendrarao Shreenivas Valveker, of that place, be appointed to the vacancy. The present auditors, Messrs. Lidbetter and Young and Mr. Nanabhoy Bhawanishanker Kanvindey offer themselves for re-appointment.

Mr. R. N. Khote proposed and Mr. J. Stevens seconded that the report of the directors, with the audited balance sheet and the profit and loss accounts for the year ending 30th June 1889, be approved and adopted.

Mr. Veerchund proposed and Mr. R. N. Khote seconded that payment of a dividend at the rate of Rupees 12-8 per share, free of income tax, be sanctioned, payable on and after Monday, 26th August.

Mr. P. Marve proposed and Mr. Veerji Karakchund seconded that Mr. Ragavendrao Shreenivas Valveker be appointed a director of the company in lieu of Mr. Basappa Gurappa, who retires from the Board.

Mr. J. Stevens proposed and Rev. T. H. Greig seconded that Messrs. Lidbetter and Young and Mr. Nanabhoy Bhawanishunker Kanvindey be appointed auditors for the current year, and that their remuneration be Rs. 150 each.

Revd. T. H. Greig proposed and Mr. R. N. Khote seconded that the thanks of the company were due to the directors and agents for the satisfactory manner in which they have managed the affairs of the company.

The chairman, in reply to a proposition of Mr. Veerchund, that the sum of Rs. 21, 511-1-6 be invested and put out to interest for the benefit of the shareholders, assured Mr. Veerchund that this was the original intention of the directors of the company. A further assertion of Mr. Veerchund was that he did not see how much benefit could be derived by the company from a director on the board who was very seldom or not at all present at the meetings during the whole year; and that one of the auditors of the company, as was customary, should go up to the mills and check the stock according to the books. The chairman remarked that the matter would receive the attention of the company.

Just before the proceedings were brought to a close, Mr. R. Valentine Reid addressed the meeting and informed the members that there was a very slow but gradual improvement towards recovery in Mr. Crystal's health, and that on the recovery of that gentleman, it was the intention of the directors, and, no doubt, of the shareholders also, to grant him a further extension of leave, when the time would come round, on the same terms as agreed to prior to his departure from Bombay.

The proceedings then terminated.

COMMERCIAL INTELLIGENCE

SATURDAY EVENING, AUG. 17.

THE usual Stock Exchange quotations wired by Reuter from London last evening show no change from those of the previous day, and the price of Bar Silver was unaltered, at 42 5-16d. per oz., the only fresh financial news being a further advance of ⅛ per cent. in the market rate of discount on short London Bills, making it 2⅝ per cent. From Paris quotations come unchanged.

The Mark Lane market was flat owing to an improvement in the Wheat crop caused by seasonable weather, but previous prices are repeated. The total Wheat afloat yesterday for the United Kingdom was 1,670,000 quarters, or 70,000 quarters less than was upon the water a week ago. In Mincing Lane, Linseed was firm at a further advance of 3d. per quarter in Calcutta seed to arrive by both routes, Bombay seed remaining at 44s. per quarter to arrive. Rapeseed was quiet but steady at Wednesday's reduced quotations. Coffee was firm, and both Mid-Plantation and Medium Mysore were 2s. per cwt. dearer, at 99s. and 100s., respectively.

Cotton closed firm in Liverpool yesterday both generally and for Surats, though the day's business had been upon a much smaller scale than Thursday's, the total sales having aggregated 8,000 bales, inclusive of 1,000 bales of Surats. Spot prices were unchanged all round, while rates for American Arrivals were irregular, showing a decline of 3-64d. in September-October deliveries, and an advance of 1-64d. in the nearest and all other positions, excepting November-December, in which no change had taken place. The Manchester market was strong, but the quotations for staple Goods and Yarn wired by Reuter show no alteration. The Liverpool market closed quiet this afternoon, Surats firm, the day's Sales having amounted to 7,000 bales, of which 1,200 were Surats; but both spot and arrival quotations come quite unchanged. The Imports were 8,000 bales.

Compared with the week before last (in which there were no holidays), last week's business in Liverpool shows more activity, the total sales having been greater by 3,000 bales, at 61,000 bales, while 23,000 bales more were taken by the trade and forwarded, at 114,000 bales. The total Stock had decreased during the week by 55,000 bales; but, as will be seen from the subjoined figures, it was yesterday 104,000 bales heavier than at this time last year, though 56,000 bales lighter than in 1887. The Stock of Surats was 4,000 less than on the previous Friday, at 154,000 bales. The total Visible Supply had fallen off by 90,000 bales, and of East Indian Cotton there were 21,000 bales less in sight compared with last week's estimate; while, as against the two precious years, a falling off in the general supply of 48,000 bales and 340,000 bales respectively is shown, and an increase in East Indians of 44,000 bales as against last year and a decrease of 181,000 bales compared with 1887.

The principal event in connection with Cotton during the past week has been the issue of the Washington Agricultural Bureau's monthly report on the condition of the crop, showing an improvement to 89 3-10 per cent. since the beginning of July. The condition thus compares with an average of 89 per cent. for the preceding five seasons, and was only better in 1887-88, when it was 93·3, and in 1885-86, when it was 96·5, the total crop for those two seasons having been just over 7 millions and rather more than 6½ million bales, respectively. The spot price of American Cotton in Liverpool has advanced ⅛d. per lb. during the week, and is now ⅞d. per lb. higher than it was at this time last year, and 15-16d. dearer than in 1887. Broach also has further advanced 1-16d. per lb. since last Friday, and American Arrivals are 3-16d. higher for the nearest deliveries and 1-32d. to 5-64d. in other positions.

Futures in New York were 2 points higher for September yesterday and 5 points for August, at 10·46 cents and 10·74 cents, respectively, the spot price remaining at 10 5-16 cents. The total Receipts at the U. S. Ports now show a falling off of 26,000 bales compared with last season and an increase of 286,000 bales as against 1886-87. To-day's message from New York advises an advance of 1-16 cent in ready Mid.-Uplands, at 10⅜ cents, while Futures were further 5 points higher for September and 7 for August.

The American crop figures to date give the following comparisons with the two previous seasons :—

Week's receipts	1,000	19,000	10,000
,, exports to U. K.	7,000	6,000	21,000

,, Stock in the Ports	83,000	473,000	105,000

The total Visible Supply of Cotton for all Europe on the 16th instant affords the following comparisons with the two previous years :—

,, Good Fair Dholleras	4 7-16d.	4 3-16d.	3⅝d.
Difference	1 15-16d.	1 7-16d.	1 9-16d.

With the Banks closing on Monday for a native festival there has been a holiday feeling about, and little fresh business has been done locally since yesterday. The Mills have not repeated their considerable purchases of Cotton from stock, having only taken a few hundred bales in the aggregate of Oojein at Rs. 201 and Karanja at Rs. 222 per candy, and no further contracts in Bengals or Broach by European buyers have transpired. The tone of the market, however, has remained steady at the previous day's advance.

WHEAT.—With no improvement on demand for export only a moderate business has been done in this market; but in the state of supplies dealers show no disposition to lower their pretensions, and we call rates steady all round at our last quotations.

SEEDS have been taken to a small extent to-day, enquiry for Rapeseed having almost ceased, while for Linseed demand is slack and all other kinds are neglected. Prices are unchanged for all descriptions and the feeling remains steady.

Cotton	463 bales.
Wheat	6,782 cwt.
Linseed	2,876 ,,
Rapeseed	5,559 ,,
Popy seed	892 ,,
Castor seed	1,617 ,,

FREIGHTS are quiet, and no fresh business of importance has transpired to-day. The following are now the current quotations :—

EXCHANGE.—Opening at last evening's closing quotations, both for Bank and private Paper, the market has remained steady thereat throughout the day, with next to nothing offering in the shape of Mercantile Bills, and no enquiry from remitters, an absence of business both ways having, in fact, been the most noticeable feature in the market. We quote :—

Bank Bills on demand	1s. 4 7-32d.	per rupee.
Do. Telegraphic	1s. 4 3-16d.	,,
Do. 3 months' sight	1s. 4 9-32d.	,,
Credits do.	1s. 4 13-32d.	,,
Francs do.	1·73.	,,

GOVERNMENT PAPER.—There has been a further downward movement in this market to-day, Four per cents., which shortly after opening declined to 99⅜ with sellers both for cash and the next account at the rate, and the September account quoted at 99⅜, buyers, having afterwards receded another 1-6, closing at 99 11-16. The rate for 4½ per cents. has been put down to 103½.

SHARES have been quiet, and quotations generally are unchanged. We note a decline, however, in City of Bombay Mill shares of Rs. 5, at Rs. 1,080; and to the same extent in Jewraj Balloo, at Rs. 980; of Rs. 7½ in Maneckji Petit, at Rs. 1,205; and of 2½ in Oriental, at Rs. 405. Bombay Cotton Press shares are Rs. 7½ higher, at Rs. 150; Treacher and Co. are Rs. 15 down, at Rs. 1,235 per share.

The Bombay Gazette

MONDAY, AUGUST 19, 1889.

ON Saturday we published the vigorous letter in which the Honourable P. M. Mehta justified the action of those leaders of the Parsee community who hold, and rightly hold, that it was unwise and mischievous to make certain hasty expressions in a confidential report from the Director-General of Police a pretext for a public demonstration, the object of which is certain to be misrepresented. The outspoken language of the writer is in truth addressed to a wider public than that represented by those who responded to the efforts made to whip up the meeting to be held next Sunday in the Allbless Hall. Some of the organisers of that meeting can plead the good intentions which have paved so much of a certain road; but it is certainly not open to all of them to do so. There is no doubt whatever that Mr. Mehta has full warrant for the assertion which he distinctly makes that the incident of the publication of Mr. Ommanney's Note was seized upon and manipulated by those who have been assiduous in the endeavour to mislead public opinion in India and in England in regard to the Crawford inquiry. This was a matter of public notoriety, and it is quite true, as Mr. Mehta states, that a contemporary which has from the beginning laboured assiduously to this end has employed an emissary who was busy going about exciting a feeling amongst the Parsee community and stimulating it with promises which were as fatuous as the confident assertions that the result of the Crawford inquiry would be that the accused would come out of the ordeal with "the honours of war." We can well believe that these manœuvres excited considerable alarm amongst those who understood the full gravity and the real bearing of the facts disclosed during the course of that inquiry. Had it not been for the firmness with which Lord Reay's Government, in disregard of clamour and misrepresentation, pursued the course demanded by the circumstances, the scandals which had prevailed in the Presidency for the past decade would be still as rife as ever. With scarcely a single exception, the whole Civil Service approves and applauds the action of the Government which has been so persistently misrepresented by persons not belonging to that Service for whom the best excuse that can be offered is that they were not in a position to know the facts at first hand.

We will go further and affirm, without fear of contradiction, that when the day after the Commissioner of the Central Division was suspended we expressed, not only our own opinion, but that of the Civil Service, that if the Bombay Government were to blame it was not for taking that step then, but for not having taken it long before. The abortive inquiry held when Sir James Fergusson was at the head of this administration failed of its purpose simply and solely because no effort was made to secure in the only way possible the evidence of those who had been seduced or coerced into participation in the immense and ramified system of corruption which had notoriously prevailed for years. It was a matter of common conversation that several officers of high position had manifested their strong repugnance to serve in the division when those scandals were rife; but if they could not themselves testify to specific acts which from the nature of things they could only learn about indirectly that the intimations given to the Government of the day were disregarded. It was known at the time that one civil servant who made no secret of his conviction that corruption was systematised was visited with the displeasure of the Government and required to apologise to Mr. Crawford. This was the attitude which those who now impudently arraign the action of Lord Reay's Government desired to see perpetuated utterly regardless of the ultimate results.

It is right that those who in India or in England have been inclined to give ear to these disinterested censors should learn from Mr. P. M. Mehta's letter how completely wasted are the efforts to throw dust in the eyes of intelligent observers. While protesting with warmth against the slur upon the Parsees conveyed by an unfortunate passage in Mr. Ommanney's Note, this influential exponent of Parsee opinion regards with alarm the attempt to put the public upon the wrong track, and expresses emphatic approval of the unflinching determination of purpose, and the steadfast disregard of misrepresentation with which Lord Reay has probed and exposed a long-festering sore of unexampled corruption. Himself a barrister of high standing, the Honourable Mr. Mehta regards as the true judgment in the case the clear and exhausting Minute in which Sir Raymond West reviewed and pulverised the report in which the Honourable Mr. Justice Wilson set forth his views and those of his colleagues for the consideration of Government. This report has been termed a judgment, and spoken of as an acquittal by critics who do not know the difference between a report and a judicial decision. It is a striking evidence of the sincerity and strength of the feeling entertained by Mr. Mehta and those for whom he speaks that not even the natural irritation arising from Mr. Ommanney's too sweeping animadversions blinds him to the value of the services rendered by the Inspector-General of Police, who, he frankly avows, performed a tiring duty with untiring zeal and great ability. We are sorry to see that Mr. Mehta goes the length of saying that corruption is not so uncommon as is generally supposed even amongst English officials. Something of this kind was said before, and we then pointed out that the most comprehensive inquiries had not resulted in even a whisper of complicity on the part of any European officials other than the solitary officer whose case was under investigation. Had there been any ground imaginable for retorting the charge of corruption on others there is no doubt that the opportunity would have been promptly availed of. Not even the magnificent mendacity which Mr. Mehta attributes to some of those who laboured to mislead the public in this business ever dared to formulate a countercharge of the kind, although Mr. Crawford himself had intimated his opinion that the whole of the Civil Service was hostile to him when he asked that the Commission to inquire into his case should not be composed of Bombay Civil Servants. By regretting that the writer of so candid and able a contribution to the literature evoked by the Crawford case we quite agree with him that if the bulk of the Parsees understood the facts they would not have listened to excited counsels, but would have been satisfied with the result of the letter addressed to Lord Reay by Sir Dinshaw Petit in the name of the real leaders of that community. The meeting will certainly be turned to account to make the wrong appear the better reason. As Mr. Mehta bluntly puts it, the whole thing will be misrepresented exactly as has been done over and over again in the course of the inquiry in regard to other matters, assiduous misrepresentation obscuring the truth.

THE third annual report of the Bombay Veterinary College has just been issued. In it Mr. Steele, the Principal, deals very fully with the work which has been accomplished. During the year, for the first time, the second annual professional examinations were held, and the results were such as are "specially gratifying and encouraging to the staff." During the year, however, there has been a decrease in the number of members—a fact which is accounted for by Mr. Steele in five ways, affording a distinct excuse for each of the five pupils the college has lost, by the way. First of these is reaction after the first enthusiasm when the college was opened; second, a desire among possible candidates to observe what openings there are for graduates before committing themselves to a course of study; third, the opening of the Technical Institute. The fourth possible reason is put down as the decision of the College Committee to admit only matriculates and finally "possibly also the absence of the Principal on sick leave." The decision of the Committee to admit only graduates Mr. Steele believes to have originated in a misunderstanding, and that it is calculated to have a serious effect on the future of the college. He urges the necessity of a declaration of policy on the part of Government. If Government must employ all graduates to prevent their lapsing into the already overlarge class of the educated unemployed it will be wise, he considers, not to develop a native veterinary professional body so rapidly as the College is capable of doing. On the other hand, if, as is contended, the country is prepared to employ native veterinarians and to adequately pay them, the College should, Mr. Steele submits, continue to work on the lines originally laid down. There seems to be more weight in the fourth "cause" than in all the others put together. Of what use is it to acquire a veterinary education if there is little chance of its being applied to a remunerative purpose? Young men are prudently looking before they leap, and are watching the experiences of present students before they themselves enter the institution. We have several times received an anxious enquiry from present students who want to know whether they are to be provided with situations on the completion of their studies. Mr. Steele, however, is not troubled with any doubts as to the opening for qualified young men. He seems to be fully convinced that whether Government appoints them to posts or whether they commence practice independently, there are ample opportunities of securing a good return for their years of

POONA, Aug. 18.

His Excellency the Governor yesterday presided at the distribution of prizes to the pupils of the English school in the city, when several European gentlemen attended. Lord Reay gave a short address, in the course of which he said:—"I always like to place corporal development alongside brain development, because the former is essential to the growth of the latter. I have been told by Mr. Kirkham that there is no Hindu school in his division which has given such facilities to drill and gymnastics as you provide here to keep the control of the mind over the body and not let the body control the mind. A careful selection of drill and gymnastics, in addition to cricket and swimming, should be entered into in every school programme. I read the report most carefully, and am glad to notice that it contains many traces of a stern determination to reach a high standard. I was particularly struck with one sentence of Mr. Kirkham's remarks on the school. It was this—'Accuracy and thoroughness should be aimed at rather than wide field.' This precept cannot too often be repeated. Give to every boy the power to stimulate in him the desire of mastering one subject instead of wasting his faculties in acquiring a little knowledge of many things. I am glad to learn from the report that you are taught drawing, botany, and science, and that you are taught in the vernacular. I have been always impressed with the disadvantages to native schools, to teachers, as well as to pupils of having to teach science in a foreign language, but if it is an advantage to you, perhaps my friend, Dr. Cooke, would tell you that it is certainly not an advantage to the teacher to coin scientific words in the vernacular. I read with surprise that many struggling students of the middle class will waste their time. Of course, he will on two examinations, but who invites him to read for two? The reason why the N. I. F. examination was instituted was to prevent the boys from wasting their time on subjects which they did not intend pursuing through the full college course; but I am afraid this sentence discloses hankering after forbidden fruit."

His Excellency the Governor then congratulated the school in having managed to pass 65 out of 102 boys sent up at the last matriculation examination. His Excellency was informed that St. Xavier's College passed 5 in the first fifth out of 18, whereas they only passed 3, and the Elphinstone High School 4. The percentage of passed scholars was not a criterion of the result of a school's success, but the percentage of those passed in honours. They should look to quality, not quantity. The difference between a clever boy and a dull boy at present leads to a clever boy going through his examinations at a quicker rate and earlier age, and in the end there was not much difference in their qualifications. What was wanted was to get the golden grain which there was in a clever boy. Much good would be done by additional care than by multiplying indefinitely the number of mediocrities whose educational struggles should end with the N. I. F. examination.

Referring to the disinterestedness of those gentle men who founded the school, His Excellency urged the boys to imitate their example, and in their turn to lay themselves out to improve their countrymen Their school had vindicated the policy of Government because its success proved that Government do not rely in vain on private enterprise with liberal assistance from Government, not only in money, but in contributing such sagacious advisers as Principals Cooke, Oxenham, and Mr. Kirkham.

His Excellency was also glad to see that stress was laid on boarding-houses for schools, as the Government of India, he noticed, wanted to encourage such houses. In conclusion His Excellency urged them to adopt a simple and truthful mode of life, as the improvement of their countrymen would depend largely on their leading pure and virtuous lives.

Mr. Apte proposed a vote of thanks on the conclusion of the speech, and this closed the proceedings.

If introduced more extensively, it would be possible to extract large quantities of forest produce which are not now utilised. The subject is occupying the attention of Government.

BOMBAY VOLUNTEERS AT THE NOVELTY.

The entertainment given at the Novelty Theatre on Saturday evening by the members of the Bombay Volunteer Club was worthy a much larger audience than assembled to listen to the very tempting programme promised, although it was to be noted that, a great many of the vacant chairs being ticketed "reserved," had they been filled by the purchasers of the tickets there would have been even a crowded house. But what the audience may have lacked in numbers was amply made up in enthusiasm, and the amateurs, from the kindly receptions they one and all met with must have felt that they were sufficiently rewarded for the nights they had spent in rehearsal and encouraged to go on as they are doing. The programme, as has been said, was an excellent one, every song being well sung, as might have been expected from the gentlemen who contributed, and every item interesting. The first part was a concert, opening with a selection from "The Mikado," or rather "The Mikado Lancers," by members of the 2nd Gloster Band, who formed the orchestra. The curtain then rose on the company, who sang the glee, "Oh, who will o'er the downs so free," the rendering of which showed careful rehearsal, all the parts being equally balanced. They also gave "The Three Chafers," which was even more highly appreciated than their first attempt. Mr. Lamb was in splendid voice. His songs were well chosen, and of a merry, lively turn. Everybody knows what a grand, powerful, rich bass voice he is gifted with, and really his rendering of "Will o' the wisp" was a treat. As much so was his song "The Postilion," for which he was encored. Mr. Andersen Clark sang with that faultless expression for which he is noted "On the banks of Allan Water" and "She wore a wreath of Roses." Mr. Thelenberg had twice to bow his acknowledgments for "Still is the night," a solo which he has before treated a Bombay audience to. It is no easy task to give full expression to that difficult air, but the accomplished vocalist quite enchanted the house. He also sang "Good-bye" to perfection, and responded to the recall by entertaining the audience with a rendering of "Shipmates." The second part opened with another selection by the orchestra, followed by a duet by Messrs. Andersen Clark and Thelenberg. One of the best things of the entertainment was an exhibition of Indian club exercise by Mr. Pillow, who manipulated the heavy clubs with surprising skill. There was a pretty exhibition of fencing. Then came the great laugh of the evening. Mr. Smithson, extravagantly made up, something after the style of a "Prossers Avenue" loafer, appeared and sang "Tut, tut, tut! Dear me!" His gestures and facial contortions were excruciatingly funny, and at the conclusion he drove the audience to still wilder fits of laughter by an exceedingly droll and original mode of exit. He was loudly encored, and on reappearing he merely explained that he would then have introduced his bagpipes, but somebody had unfortunately sat upon them. "Tut, tut, tut, tut, tut, dear me!" he said, and retired. The real fact of the matter is that Mr. Smithson expected the encore and had his bagpipes tuned ready, but his friends behind the scenes concealed the instrument under some old side wings, afraid that the sound of the pipes might empty the house before the burlesque came on. Mr. O'Neill, who was down on the bill for a step dance, executed "Ghillie Callum" to perfection. After a short interval the curtain rose on the burlesque "Wagner out-wagged." The cast, a curiosity in its way, was as follows:—

Professor Sheepskin—An un-Fort-unate gentleman, who dresses in less gorgeous ap-Parel than his Colaba-rators, so as to be Coorla-Mr. Smithson

Slippery Bob—A slipper-y gent, who make a boot-iful property man, it is expected that heel be the sole of the piece .....Mr. Kopp.

Mr. Roseanco—Leader of the band, a man who, being determined to make his Marcks in the world, is at times a little Soudy .....Mr. Strong-i-th'arm.

Piratical Baron—A Bony-fide gentleman, who, tho' stout, receives 5 Guineas a night for singing Bass.....Mr. Bass O. Profundo.

Edgardo—A penurious pheasant, who is consumed with a rabbit adoration for his deer, but the Buckaneer for his part rigidly objects to his little game and quails in his shoes.....Mr. T. O. P. Note.

Baron de Rampartrow and Duke of Walkeshwar—An un-scruple-ous villain, who weights the arrival of his rival Edgardo, that he may p-ounce in him and pound him.....Mr. Barry Tone.

Razorini—The baron's trusting assassin, man of iron-ical temperament, who would not steel, though one might be lead to zinc so.....Mr. O. P. Smith Willard.

Elvira—A fast and loosenating un-kempt young Lady, who fixes the hearts of her admirers so that they form attachments. She becomes Edgardo's fiance, being all his fiancy painted her .....

Miss Vere de Vere Montmorency Gwendoline Smith. Guards, Black Guards, Variets, &c.

The above almost speaks for itself, suffice it to say that all the players entered with gusto into the fun of the piece. Slippery Bob excited a good deal of laughter by the liberties he took with the scenery. It was rather amusing to see him staggering through a waltz with a canvas castle wall in his arms. Edgardo and Elvira made rather a hit, too, by their burlesque on the "Yeomen of the Guard" duet, "I have a song to sing, oh." The make-up of the lady with the long name, by the way, was capital. The performance all through was most satisfactory, and the Volunteer Club might not only help themselves, but do much to entertain their friends by giving more than one annual show.

PRINCELY MUNIFICENCE.

The following correspondence and resolution are published relative to an offer by His Highness the Thakor Saheb of Bhownagar for an endowment fund for the training and maintenance of nurses at the Jamshedji Jijibhai Hospital:—

I have the honour to acknowledge receipt of your Excellency's kind letter of the 8th instant, and in reply to state that I will be glad if the Advocate-General of Bombay for the time being is appointed trustee in the room of the chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, who is unable to join.

Since leaving Mahableshwar I have given further thought to the object for which I made this donation, with the result, that I have been much impressed with the need for its receiving large support. I had intended subscribing annually, but now think it would be of greater benefit if I made a larger donation at once, and accordingly beg to increase the thirty thousand rupees to one lakh, making only this additional condition that the fund be called "The Lady Reay Fund for Nurses," which I trust your Excellency and Lady Reay will kindly consent to.

I know how much your Excellencies have the success of this work at heart, and in thus desiring to connect Lady Reay's name with it, I am anxious first to express my appreciation of the unremitting efforts of her ladyship to promote the improvement in India of hospital arrangements in connection with the nursing of patients, both male and female; and next, to show in a small measure my high esteem for your Excellency and Lady Reay, and my grateful recollection of the kindness I have always experienced from you.

I enclose a cheque herewith on the Bank of Bombay for rupees one hundred thousand in favour of the Accountant-General, Bombay, by whom I understand the fund should be held, to allow of the existing law in respect of such funds being operative.

I feel sure "The Lady Reay Fund for Nurses" will increase more and more by subscriptions from every part of the Presidency now under your Excellency's just and benign control, as the advantages of its operations in the relief of the sufferings of my countrymen and countrywomen become known.

Resolution.—On the last anniversary of the birthday of Her Majesty the Queen-Empress his Highness the Thakor of Bhownagar was pleased in commemoration of the day to place at the disposal of this Government a sum of Rs. 30,000 to be invested as an endowment fund for the training and maintenance of nurses at a Bombay hospital. This munificent gift was at the time suitably acknowledged by Government. His Highness has now, unsolicited, given for the same benevolent object a further sum of Rs. 70,000, raising the total amount of his gift to one lakh of rupees, and requested that the endowment, thus created, may be entitled "The Lady Reay Fund for Nurses."

2. The Governor-in-Council, in accepting with great pleasure, this most liberal donation would again desire to record his grateful appreciation of the generous and public-spirited action of his Highness the Thakor Saheb and his sense of the benefits likely to accrue to the community from the munificence of his Highness. He also accedes with pleasure to the proposal that the fund, thus constituted, should bear the name of Lady Reay.

DISTRIBUTION OF SCHOOL PRIZES AT BARODA.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

BARODA, Aug. 1.

On Thursday a large meeting took place in the hall of the College, Baroda, to witness the annual distribution of prizes to the pupils of the college and high school. In the absence of His Highness the Maharaja, the chair was kindly taken by Colonel F. H. Jackson, Agent to the Governor-General at Baroda, and a number of European ladies and gentlemen, and the chief officials of the State were present. The hall was filled in every part, and the galleries were crowded with the students. The acting Principal, after expressing regret at His Highness's absence, gave a short account of the progress of the department during the year, in the course of which he said:—

We have this college teaching up to the highest degrees that it is within the power of the University of Bombay to confer. And our staff is soon to be strengthened by the addition of the Professor of Agriculture, whose coming will not long precede the addition, I trust, of a degree of agriculture to the other degrees granted by our Bombay University. I am glad to be able to announce the appointment of Mr. J. H. Middleton, B. Sc., of Edinburgh University, to the post of Professor of Agriculture. Mr. Middleton will join his appointment early in November. One other thing I may mention with regard to our college. Students reading for their B. A. at Bombay or Poona are able to attend law-lectures at the same time. These law lectures are held at those colleges for an hour twice a week during term-time. Perhaps we may be able to induce some of the distinguished lawyers who adorn the Baroda Courts to give this matter their consideration, and let us know whether some arrangement might not be made by which our students should have the benefit of their legal experience. It is not with the hope of increasing the already numerous stock of vakils in the State that I make this suggestion, but because our revenue and judicial departments have to be recruited from men who have had some training in the principles of Law. Besides the college there are two high schools, one which is held in this building and one a grant-in-aid school at Navsari. We have six first grade Anglo-Vernacular Schools at Petlad Sojitra, Pattan, Visnagar, Amreli, and grant-in-aid at Gaudevi) teaching up to the fifth standard, after which boys come from the districts to join the sixth and seventh standards in our high school. Through the kindness of the State twenty-five scholarships are given to deserving boys coming from the district schools, to enable them to prosecute their studies here. Besides the six first grade schools, we have nine second grade schools teaching up to the 4th standard (at Baroda, Branch School, Dabhoi, Vaso, Kadi, Sidhpur, Mehesana, Dwarka, and grant-in-aid Tata School at Navsari and Billimora). Thus there are eighteen institutions in the care of this department. Last year there were nineteen, but one—The Sirdars' School—was abolished during the year, as our efforts to induce the Sirdar class to avail themselves of educational facilities were unfortunately not crowned with success. The number of students learning English in these institutions is 1,512, made up as follows, and I will read last year's numbers also, to let you judge how we have been growing:—

College	75	41
High School	571	475
12 A.-V. Schools	776	686
Grant-in-aid Schools	390	326
Sirdars' School	...	52
Total	1,812	1,580

The number for the last year was 1,580; increase of 232, which appears to show substantial growth. At the last University examinations our results were as follows:—First B. Sc. examination, 2 sent up, 2 passed; previous examination, 20 sent up, 14 passed; matriculation examination, 31 sent up, 20 passed; drawing examination of the Sir J. J. School of Art—Second grade drawing examination, 6 sent up, 2 passed; first grade drawing examination, 24 sent up, 8 passed. The total number passed from our college and high school up to date is as follows:—First B. Sc., 2; previous, 65; matriculation, 156; first grade drawing, 36; and second grade drawing, 2. In conclusion, I have to say that the department is in a thriving condition in all respects, and that so long as it receives the thoughtful care as it does at present from the Dewan Saheb, there need be no fear for its prosperous development.

After a programme of songs and recitations had been given in excellent style by the students, the prizes were distributed by Colonel Jackson.

The Dewan Saheb then rose and spoke as follows:—

I should have preferred to have postponed to-day's gathering till His Highness the Maharaja Saheb returned to his capital, which perhaps will be in a couple of months more. But Mr. Littledale naturally felt for his pupils, who have lost their prizes last year, and but for to-day's exhibition they would have been put off for a further indefinite period. Ladies and gentlemen, you will agree with me in thinking that there is nothing in students' life so pleasing to themselves as well as to their relations and friends as to carry home a few prize-books under their arms as a trophy of the hard-fought battle among their own companions. The acting Principal has given us a very interesting sketch of what has been done by him and his subordinates during the year just ended. Not only has the number of students increased by over 200, but various additions have been made, to improve the status of the college. Our college, which hitherto taught up to P. E. and 1st B. Sc. Standards, has been recognized by the Bombay University to teach up to the 2nd B. A. and 2nd B. Sc. degrees. Thus most of our students will be able to complete their college course among their families and friends at a comparatively small cost. Another feature worth noticing is that we shall soon have a very highly educated English gentleman among us to open an agricultural branch in our college, and as most of His Highness's subjects are cultivators, it is hoped that in due course this branch of instruction will be most popular among our ryots and play an important part in the future history of Baroda. In addition to the benefactions noticed by the acting Principal, His Highness has sanctioned the addition of a very valuable stock to our laboratory, students have been sent to the Technical Institute in Bombay, and His Highness has been pleased to place Rs. 30,000 at the disposal of the Government of Bombay to establish a chair in the Grant Medical College in connection with the researches to be made in medicines, and especially in native drugs. Nearly 300 students have hitherto matriculated or passed other tests, and have become useful to the State as well as to society. (Applause.)

In reply Colonel Jackson made a very interesting and amusing speech, which was received with much applause, and the meeting terminated with the singing in Hindustani of "God save the Queen" by the pupils of the music school.

A LETTER FROM LORD DUFFERIN.

Lord Dufferin and Ava has sent the following autograph letter of condolence to ex-Queen Myouk Shwey Yay of Burma, now living in Calcutta, in reply to a communication from her, informing him and Lady Dufferin of the recent sudden death of her only daughter, Princess Kyouk Sook Thake:—

LONDON, July 9th, 1889.

My dear friend,—I cannot tell you with what extreme sorrow and regret I received your letter, and read of the terrible calamity which has overtaken you.

You are well aware that I was very fond of your dear little Princess, and greatly admired her modesty and gentleness and sweet manners.

When I last saw her she looked so well and bright that neither Lady Dufferin nor I were prepared for the sad intelligence, and we both understand only too well the deep measure of your grief. It will now be incumbent on your son to be all the more careful to comfort you and to alleviate your redoubled sorrows.

My wife desires to be most kindly remembered to you.

Believe me always to be
Your Majesty's affectionate friend,

CRICKET.

BOMBAY GYMKHANA VS. PARSEES.

"There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip" is a proverb that is often exemplified in no game more so than in cricket, so that even as the match now stands it would hardly be quite safe to predict that the Bombay Gymkhana will avenge the defeat inflicted by the Parsees on the Poona Gymkhana a fortnight ago. Nevertheless it certainly looks very like it, for when stumps were drawn on Saturday evening, the game stood very much in favour of the Europeans. The scoring on both sides was by no means heavy, and if the Parsees did not make a long stand it was not for want of encouragement. The field all round was lined thickly with Parsees, who cheered even the most trifling hits, so enthusiastic were they, and cheered again when one of their batsmen, having made a narrow escape, was given not out by the umpire. On the Parsee side, Gagrat was the only man who made a really good display of batting. The manner in which this player, who wields a really splendid bat, was got out was exceedingly smart. He defied all efforts to bowl him, so Steel determined to try and catch him out. Then followed a proof of Mr. Steel's clever captaining tactics. It was evident from the manner in which he changed the position of his fielders he meant something; and that was very soon shown. He bowled a nice tempting ball to Gagrat. The latter took the bait. It was an easy one to hit. He balanced himself on the tips of his toe nails, came down heavily on the ball, and a deafening cheer arose as the ball went flying high in the air. But the hand-clapping stopped when it was noticed how calmly Captain Jervois waited to receive it. The Captain did not throw the chance away, and Gagrat's innings was at an end. From that it might have been considered he would have been more careful when he went in again. In the second innings he was not allowed to run up so high a score. Mr. Steel tried him on in the same way as before, and once more he fell a victim, driving a tempting ball right into Mr. O'Shea's hands. The Parsee innings was all over in about two hours for 87. The Gymkhana first innings did not last very much longer, but they scored faster—Mr. Barton in particular piling on his 29 in a remarkably short space of time,—and overtopped their opponents' total by 38. The Parsees scored very slowly in their second innings, and although they opened better than in their first innings, lost five wickets for 52 runs. The fielding of both teams was excellent. The Parsee long distance fielders showed up remarkably well in their smart picking up and quick returning of the ball. The Gymkhana team never fielded better. They were, thanks to Mr. Steel, placed beautifully, and none ever missed a chance.

The Parsee captain having won the toss elected to bat first, and at half-past eleven the Gymkhana took the field, E. E. Steel and Dr. Field bowling to M. D. Kanga and J. L. Billimora. The Parsees made an exceedingly bad start. Kanga managed to get his leg in front of a ball from Steel and was given out l-b-w. (1 for 1). Billimora, after putting together three singles, allowed Steel to displace his bails (2 for 6), and immediately after Dubash's wicket fell to Dr. Field (3 for 10). B. D. Gagrat and D. P. Kanga getting together, looked as if they were going to improve matters and make something of a stand. They were very cautious at first, and very timid about Steel's slows, although Gagrat managed once or twice to get away a ball from Steel for a small figure. Twenty was no sooner signalled than Kanga made a most beautiful boundary cut off Dr. Field. Gagrat also woke up, and although many balls were thrown up to him from Steel, which he did not seem to know very well what to do with, he seized every chance to hit out, and not a few very pretty drives did he make. Both batsmen seemed now to have got settled down, and likely to make a long stand from the freedom with which they dealt with the bowling. Both had just entered double figures, when Kanga, in attempting a drive, did not get the ball fairly on his bat, and put it easily into Sangster's hands (4 for 34). The Parsee captain next went in, and the new partnership opened well. Pavri got a single off the first ball delivered to him by Steel, and Gagrat drove the next heavily to the on side, but the ball being well fielded and quickly returned, the hit only brought 2. But Pavri did not, after all, fulfil his good promises, for he only managed another single, when he gave Nicholson an easy chance, which the fielder did not fail to take, and he had to retire with only 2 to his credit (5 for 38). R. C. Mody, opening with a 2 off Steel, caused 40 to be signalled. The next ten runs were made in a remarkably short space of time, Gagrat by his free hitting being responsible for 9 of them. Gagrat still continued to pile on the runs, and when the score stood at 59, it was noticeable, as Steel began an over, from the manner in which he changed his field, he was going to try some fresh tactics, and endeavour to get out the batsman who was playing such havoc with the bowling with a catch. This proved successful, for the first ball he delivered Gagrat hit high right into the hands of Captain Jervois (6 for 59). Gagrat, it must be said, was in magnificent form. His driving was particularly fine, and he never made a mistake, hitting all the balls low until Steel finally beat him. With his last four hits alone he made 13, they being 3 threes and a 4 boundary hit. The first change in bowling was now tried as Reporter joined Mody, Clark taking Dr. Field's place. The two batsmen made runs rapidly between them, but they risked two much, especially as the fielding was good. Twice they narrowly escaped running themselves out, and at last Mody, who was playing well, fell a victim to his own foolishness, being run out in attempting what was beyond him (7 for 72). The next wicket did not add anything, Bapsola being bowled by Clark without scoring (8 for 72). Bharucha was loudly cheered by his friends, when, on joining Reporter, he got away the first ball delivered to him by Clark for 3. Immediately after Reporter had to retire, returning a ball to Steel, which was smartly held by the bowler (9 for 76). Bharucha hit heavily, and while Pand

The Parsees, 38 runs behind, commenced their second innings at a quarter to five, Billimoria and Reporter facing the bowling of Steel and Dr. Field. They opened somewhat better than in their first innings. Steel's first over was only spoiled from being a maiden by Billimoria getting a single off the last ball. The doctor seemed at first to have got a little out of form with the ball, for he allowed the batsmen to hit him frequently, and a pretty boundary cut by Reporter got 10 signalled. The batsmen, however, did not manage to do much with Steel's bowling, which they merely played back to him. Indeed, they made several narrow escapes. After bowling one or two overs, Dr. Field got into more like his usual form, and then runs came very slowly indeed, although, from the care displayed by the batsmen, it looked as if they would not be easily separated. After playing a long time and doing little, Steel just tipped Billimoria's bales and the first wicket fell for 14. M. D. Kanga, who in the first innings had to retire without scoring, opened, on joining Reporter, by hitting two successive balls off Steel for a two and a single. It being now deemed advisable to try a change in bowling, Clark relieved Dr. Field. After this scoring was very slow indeed, and it was a long time ere 20 was reached. Play continued very slow, and if the batsmen defied the efforts of the bowlers to get at their wickets, they certainly did not do much, considering the length of time they kept together at the wickets. M. Kanga was at length dismissed by an exceedingly smart catch by Sangster off Steel's bowling (2 for 36). Gagrat, the famous Parsee batsman, who made the top score in the first innings, was greeted with great enthusiasm by his friends as he went in to join Reporter, but he did not do much, for a magnificent catch by O'Shea at long field off caused him to retire to the tent (3 for 38). Thus for three wickets the Parsees equalised matters with the Gymkhana. On D. Kanga joining Reporter, the game grew livelier than it had done in the innings so far, until Field got the better of Reporter, who during the hour and a half he was batting, only managed to put on 21 runs. (4 for 52). The next wicket added nothing, and when time was called D. D. Kanga and Bapasola were batting, the total thus standing at 52 for 5 wickets.

THE HON. P. M. MEHTA ON MR. OMMANNEY'S NOTE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

Sir,—As the Hon'ble P. M. Mehta has referred to me and to my action in his letter published in your journal in regard to the public meeting of the Parsees which is to take place on Sunday next, all I desire to say is that while the honourable representative of the Parsees in the Legislative Council has failed in his self-imposed task of settling the matter in dispute between the Parsee community and Mr. Ommanney, a very humble citizen like myself has by carefully gauging the feeling in our community succeeded in aiding, in a very small degree, the movement which will terminate in a public meeting of the Parsees on Sunday next in Allbless Baug. I may here publicly add that the feeling in favour of a public meeting was unanimous amongst all the Parsees of my acquaintance. The decision to which the Parsees have come, and the position to which the Hon'ble Mr. P. M. Mehta did not wish them to come, indicate the difference in the position between the Hon'ble P. M. Mehta and—Your, &c.,

DEATH IN THE COOKING POT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

Sir,—With reference to my letter which appeared in the Bombay Gazette a few days ago in which I drew attention to the danger of having lead used in the tinning of the cooking pots, and stating that rubbing a piece of clean white rag on the tinned surface would supply evidence of the possible presence of lead, whilst the absence of the stain would indicate that there was no lead, I regret to say that this simple test—which I recommended not as a conclusive but as an initial test, chemical testing alone being conclusive—has been shown to be untrustworthy, as Dr. Maconachie obtained the stain, but found that chemical analysis gave evidence of only pure tin. I cannot explain how Dr. Maconachie obtained a dark stain from tin (unless there was zinc in the tin), for tin does not, I believe, give a dark stain, though it may, like most metals, give a dirty mark when rubbed with a clean cloth. But that must be different from the dark shining stain obtained from lead. Dr. Maconachie has, however, shown that the dark stain cannot be relied on, and one must fall back on the plan of having the kallaiwallah watched so as to prevent him using anything but the long narrow strips of tin, which are pure, or at all events free from admixture with lead. Cooking pots tinned with these are quite safe. The kallaiwallahs have heard that the papers are discussing them, and are likely, therefore, to be on their guard. But the cheapness of lead or solder compared with tin must ever make it a strong temptation to them to use the cheaper metal as a partial substitute for the dearer one, and the danger, therefore, if averted for the time being, is almost sure to recur, especially when the public is lulled once more into false security.—Yours, &c.,

MR. OMMANNEY VS. MR. E. J. RICHARDSON.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "BOMBAY GAZETTE."

Sir,—Permit me through the medium of your paper to rebut a statement made by Mr. Ommanney in the 52nd para. of his memo. to the effect that it was mainly through my instrumentality that the expedition to Juth had been unsuccessful in obtaining evidence against Mr. Crawford and the Chief of Juth.

An expedition consisting of two gentlemen, viz., Messrs. Ebden and Gamble, authorised by Mr. Ommanney, to sound the Chief of Juth in regard to a bribe which he is alleged to have paid to Mr. Crawford through a family priest of his, named Shankurbhu left Bijapore to the best of my recollection in the latter end of August, but previous to its departure, some preparations had to be made, as the distance between Bijapoor and Juth is 40 miles and the road in several places rough; ponies had, therefore, to be posted, and a tent, I am given to understand, was sent on ahead. However secretly these arrangements had been carried out, I have been told, and have every reason to believe, that the astute vakil, the man alluded to in Mr. Ommanney's report, got wind of them, as also of Mr. Gamble's arrival at Bijapoor, and lost no time in leaving for Juth, thus succeeding not only in starting for Bijapoor, but also in getting to Juth some hours in advance of the expedition.

Not only was I not aware of the Chief's having had a vakil in Bijapoor, while evidence was being collected against Mr. Crawford, but I did not even know that he had any such person in his private employ, or that he was a relative of Hunmantrao's, until the fact was mentioned to me, if I remember rightly, by Mr. Ebden during an interview which I had with that officer while passing through Bijapoor on my way to Juth. On my return to Juth I made it a point to question the Chief about this vakil, and advised him to dispense with his services with as little delay as possible, which he, I believe, did. Since instituting inquiries I have been informed that the man during his sojourn in Bijapoor resided with a clerk, a relative of his employed in the Political Agent's office, and I have no doubt that he had emissaries both in Poona and Bijapoor, who kept him well supplied with as much information as they could glean, and which they thought would have been serviceable to him. Imagine my surprise, sir, when on perusing Mr. Ommanney's memo. published in your issue of the 16th July, I discovered that I was accused of having thwarted the ends of justice in a case which was being made out against Mr. Crawford and the Chief of Juth. The accusation is of a somewhat serious nature and amounts to my having attempted to screen alleged offenders. Perhaps Mr. Ommanney is not aware that in my capacity of Magistrate, extending over a period of 34 years, I had most important and delicate work entrusted to me, and that I gave satisfaction in every instance. Suffice it to say that my superiors never knew me to swerve from the paths of duty, honesty, and veracity. It is a great pity that the gentlemen of the expedition during the few hours they were at Juth did not send for the abovementioned vakil, subject him to an examination, and thus elicit from him the source from which he had derived his information regarding their movements, as they, I believe, were aware at the time that he had preceded them.

At Mr. Ommanney's invitation I called on him in the evening, a few hours prior to Mr. Gamble's departure for Bijapoor, and was asked whether I had any knowledge of a bribe which the Chief of Juth is alleged to have paid to Mr. Crawford. I told him that I had heard of such a rumour, but whether there was any truth in it or not I could not say. I also informed him that if I had been aware of the Chief's intention, I would have considered it a part of my duty to have dissuaded him from carrying it out, and in the event of his refusing to act up to my advice, I would have brought the matter to the notice of Government. It was during this interview that Mr. Ommanney informed me that he purposed asking Mr. Ebden to make a descent on Juth and ascertain from the Chief whether he had paid a bribe or not. Some time after this I met Mr. Ebden, and in the course of conversation informed him (inter alia) that I had heard of the Chief's intention of paying some money to Mr. Crawford through a confidential clerk of his once, but had left his service under what circumstances I was not aware of; that on questioning him as to what had induced him to think so he had informed me that the Chief had drawn a large sum of money from his Treasury at Juth. I asked the Clerk to inquire more thoroughly, and as secretly as possible, into the matter. He called at my bungalow a few days afterwards to tell me that he had not succeeded in obtaining any further information about it. I also told Mr. Ebden that I had questioned the Chief to know whether there was any truth in the rumour, and that his reply was :—"I am surprised at your questioning me on such a subject, since you know very well that I am on very good terms with the Political Agent, and have not, therefore, any occasion to dispose of my money in any such way." When asked by Mr. Ebden why I had not mentioned these facts to Mr. Ommanney, I replied that they had escaped my memory during the short interview I had with that officer, as I had disbelieved the clerk's information, and never gave it another thought.

Supposing for a moment that I had intentionally concealed these facts from Mr. Ommanney, do you think it likely that I would have disclosed them to Mr. Ebden shortly after. The information which I am alleged to have concealed was not of any importance in prosecuting their inquiries.

If Government had called upon me for an explanation in regard to the imputations cast upon me by the Acting Inspector-General of Police, Mr. Ommanney, instead of taking for Gospel truth what that officer had to say about me, I would have proved to their satisfaction that I had not in any way acted as an obstructionist.

Mr. Ommanney never for a moment thought, that his memo. would have ever seen the light of day, otherwise he would, no doubt, have been more cautious.—Yours, &c.,

MILITARY NEWS.

Captain Nixon, 18th Bengal Lancers, will be Assistant Adjutant-General to General Luck at the Muridki Cavalry camp.

Colonel Kemble, 2nd Bengal Cavalry, and Lieutenant-Colonel Ramsden, 2nd Punjab Infantry, retire from the service shortly.

The reservists of the 3rd Biluch Battalion, who reside north of the River Jhelum, will be trained in Rawalpindi, and those who reside south of that river at Sialkot.

Major-General Sir John Hudson has taken sixty days' leave, and left Allahabad on Wednesday. Lieutenant-Colonel Salkeld, 2nd Bengal Cavalry, has assumed command of the station in Sir John Hudson's absence, the command of the district devolving on Lieutenant-Colonel S. B. Home, 40th Bengal Infantry, Cawnpore.

In regard to Mr. Stanhope's scheme for the reduction of Generals, it is believed the requirements of India could be met by fixing the establishment at 1 General, 2 Lieutenant-Generals and 11 Major-Generals, instead of 3, 8, and 22 as at present. The rank of General will only be required in the case of an Indian officer being Commander-in-Chief: but the matter has not yet come before the military authorities in this country. The figures, as given in Reuter's telegram, appear to apply only to the home establishment, the total number of Generals in the three ranks being fixed at 100 instead of 160.

The following appointments have been made:—Lieutenant Thompson, 43rd Goorkha Light Infantry, to the 1st Battalion 2nd Goorkhas as officiating Wing Officer. Lieutenant Maxwell, 7th Bengal Cavalry, to be permanent Squadron Officer in the regiment. Surgeon Henderson, 1st Bengal Infantry, to Shillong, for temporary employment in Assam. Lieutenant Fraser, 18th Bengal Infantry, to be Adjutant of the regiment. Lieutenant Foster, 2nd Battalion South Wales Borderers, resigns the service. Lieutenant Weldon, 19th Madras Infantry, resigns his probationary appointment, and is posted to the Royal Dublin Fusiliers. Captain Maisey, 2nd Battalion Liverpool Regiment, and Lieutenant Wintle, 15th Bengal Cavalry, have been appointed to the Intelligence Branch as unpaid attaches.

A portion of the crew of the Dundonald have come to the "Home" from Rangoon, and the remainder follow by a later steamer. This ship sailed from Calcutta on the 1st of July for South America, and became a total loss on the Cocos. An enquiry is now being held at Rangoon. The men state they were 19 days on an uninhabited island, and lived on cocoanuts and shell-fish. They have lost all their worldly belongings, and any aid on their behalf in the shape of old clothes will be thankfully received.

THE TANNA PARSEE SCANDAL.

The case in which two young Parsees named Dadabhoy Dinshaw Ramakdawalla and Shapurjee Ardesir Kalfati are charged with wrongfully confining or causing to be confined Burjorji Eduljee and his son, wife, and daughter, came on for hearing before Mr. Jehangir Maneckjee Cursetjee at Thana yesterday. The Hon. Mr. Pherozsha Mehta, Barrister-at-Law, appeared for the complainants.

The Hon. P. M. Mehta in addressing the court, said that the case for the defence had been presented to his Honour in a very able manner, and he was compelled to say, in a very ingenious manner, because he thought that when his Honour examined the theory of his learned friend, Mr. Badrodin, that it was not only contradicted by the facts of the case as proved there, but also by the statements of the accused persons themselves, as recorded in that court. He quite agreed with Mr. Badroodin that there was no difficulty in applying the law in the case when once the facts were ascertained; and he thought he had admitted that if the facts were as stated by him, the case would of necessity have to be thrown out, but if, on the other hand, they were as stated by the prosecution, the charges would have been properly laid. The theory which he had presented to the court was that the information which was supplied in the telegram and on which the police had acted was true—that the accused No. 1, knowing well all the circumstances of the case in connection with Cooverbai, he having been her lawyer's clerk, and ascertaining through the man Krishna that she was being taken away against her will by the parents, was justified in doing what he did, and that in that case the accused could not possibly have meant to charge the complainants with abduction or enticing away, but with forcibly taking Cooverbai away. But he (the learned counsel) would prove that that was only what came from Mr. Badroodin's imagination, as it was contrary to the statement of accused No. 1. Mr. Pherozsha Mehta here read a sentence in the statement of accused No. 1, which showed that he did not know that it was the parents of the girl who had taken her away. In continuation he said that he would rely entirely on the facts of the case to show that the accused really intended to charge his clients with "enticing away." Mr. Badroodin had said that there was hostility between Cooverbai and her parents. On the 9th of May last Cooverbai complained against her parents; but all that she said on that occasion was that her parents wished her to get married. He would ask whether it was not a very natural thing for them to be so after they found that she had been ruined by the accused? That they never used any force to induce her to comply with their wishes was proved by the fact that for five years they had simply been requesting her to get married. The learned counsel read over several complaints that were purported to be written by Cooverbai, and stated several incidents that had come out during the trial which, he said, proved conclusively that she had been led astray by Shapoorjee (the second accused), and that she was now in his keeping. That was an important point, as it supplied the motive for the conduct of the accused in the present case. Everything that had been done was done to prevent the parents of the girl from getting her away from Shapoorjee. When the case came on for hearing before Mr. Cooper in which the parents of the girl were charged with assault he was shrewdly of suspicion that the legal advisers of Cooverbai saw how disgraceful her conduct was and advised her to reform. When her brother saw her leaving the court alone, without either of the accused with her, he judged it a favourable opportunity to meet her and appeal to her finer feelings. He did so, and the girl being moved by her brother's appeal, consented to return to her parents. When she got home she felt it would be most uncomfortable to live on there after what had occurred, and so she asked them to take her away for a short time for a change, which they were doing, when they were detained. The accused, finding that she had slipped through his hands, applied to Mr. Cooper for a warrant against her parents, but that being refused, and finding that she was going away, they put their heads together and resolved to send a telegram. Accused No. 2 knew perfectly well that if it were known that she was being taken away by her parents no policeman would act on it, so the message that had been despatched was sent and had the desired effect. He would ask which was the most reasonable theory, his or Mr. Badroodin's. The very witnesses produced by the defence proved that what he said was true. The ayah came and stated that there was no disturbance, and Cooverbai did not say a word when she was taken out of the carriage near Marine Lines. Then the ghatti said nothing about the matter, and he would draw the attention of the court to the fact that the ghatti's name was never mentioned till he came as a witness before his Honour, although he was stated to have played rather an important part on the day when the assault on Cooverbai was alleged to have taken place. He would say that the telegram also was inconsistent with Mr. Badroodin's theory, for if the accused only wished to detain the people, who were taking Cooverbai away, why would they telegraph to have Cooverbai herself arrested? The fact of the matter was that Dadabhoy wished it to be understood that the girl was his wife, and the telegraph signaller, the station master of Tanna, and Inspector Jefferies all concluded that the girl was his wife. Mr. Badroodin had said that Mr. Jefferies must have been mistaken in what he had said he had heard. Then all the other people must have been similarly mistaken, all on one point! The only questions that had to be decided as to the occurrences at the Tanna station were whether the complainants were detained, and what intention the accused had when he sent the telegram. The evidence established that Dadabhoy gave an account of the circumstances under which he sent the telegram, and that, as he had said before, confirmed his theory. The fact that the complainants had been detained was also established, for all the witnesses that spoke on the point either confirmed his statement or at any rate did not strengthen the statement of the other side. The policeman had said that he did not detain the people; but if he did not do so, what reason had he for making a report to Inspector Jefferies or sending a report to his chief constable at Callian? The learned counsel then reviewed the evidence of the several witnesses for the defence, and said he felt confident that the court would hold with him that it was straightforward evidence and was given by independent witnesses. As regards Cooverbai's evidence he was of opinion that it was utterly untrustworthy.

The Court: There was deliberate perjury there!

Mr. Mehta said that if the accused were convicted and sent to jail they would not only go there guilty of the crime with which they were charged, but would also be guilty of suborning evidence, for it was evident they had got Cooverbai in their power, and had induced her to perjure herself in order to save themselves. In conclusion, he said that he would ask his Honour, as Mr. Badrodin had done, to deal with the facts simply on the evidence that had been adduced.

His Honour then stated that he would deliver judgment on Tuesday next (to-morrow), and directed that the amount of bail of the accused should be increased, as he intended to convict them.

The age of protection for girls in the United States varies considerably. In Delaware (the Senate not having accepted the Bill sent up by the House of Representatives) the age is only seven years. In Alabama, California, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Iowa, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Jersey, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas, Maryland, Utah, Montana, and New Mexico, it is ten; in Virginia and West Virginia, Missouri, Kentucky, Indiana, and Idaho Territory, it is twelve; in Maine and New Hampshire it is thirteen; in Illinois, Michigan, Oregon, Wisconsin, Vermont, Ohio, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Arizona, Dakota and Wyoming Territories, it is fourteen; in Nebraska it is fifteen; in Pennsylvania, New York, Tennessee, Washington, D. C., and Washington Territory, it is sixteen; in Kansas it is eighteen; in Arkansas and Louisiana, no age is fixed.

ENGLISH AS SHE IS PRONOUNCED.

One of the many uses to which the phonograph must incidentally lend itself, remarks a contemporary, will be that of preserving and reproducing the accent and pronunciation of different words in different epochs. At the present time nothing could be more chaotic than our national utterance of certain common parts of speech. No two educated people pronounce the same words in similar fashion; nay, more, no one educated Englishman or woman can be counted on to pronounce the same word in the same way at all times and seasons. There is, indeed, no common standard of cultured pronunciation; no authoritative teaching on the subject. The stage, which in Paris would be taken as a guide in these matters, has a set of pronunciations peculiarly and perversely its own. The stage, as often as not, says, "circumstances" where the stalls would say circumstances. "Leezhur" is dramatic for "leisure"—at least "in the provinces." "When you have 'leezhur,' my dear Sir Lionel," says the dowager-duchess of society drama, "I beg you to play us something on the 'piaanofortay.'" "Nevah! Not under any 'circumstances,'" replies the aristocratic villain, strongly accenting the penultimate syllable in the approved manner "I leave the 'piaano' to 'gurls.'" Now we are quite justified in supposing that were these two seated in the stalls, instead of on practicable chairs, they would not talk like that, but like other educated folk.

The pulpit is, if possible, more misleading than the stage. What preacher, known or otherwise, but has some pronunciation—it may be only one—which for outrageous eccentricity licks all elocutionary creation? The word may be long in coming. Period after period may glide by when suddenly, in some closing burst of eloquence, an uncanny misplacement of the accent mars the whole discourse, and sends you off pondering, not on the sermon, however edifying it may have been, but on whether you or the preacher are right about one paltry word. If he be right—which Heaven forbid—the world comes tumbling about your ears. Lines you have penned in fair ladies' birthday books, the lever de rideau you have had accepted, recitations and readings you have given to politely clapping audiences, after dinner speeches on which you pride yourself, spring up and as it were choke you with a prickly self-conscious shame. In all you used the fatal word, in all you pronounced it in a manner which, if the divine be right, must have stamped you a vulgarian and ignoramus, and have conclusively accounted for the smiles and congratulations of your success d'estime. It may have been the simplest word, such as "chivalry," which has now for the first time burst upon you as "shivalry." It may have been "chivalrous," or "shivalrous," which now become "chivalrous" and "shivalrous." It may have been "luxury," which is now "lukshury," or "tortoise," which is now "tortoys." The more simple and hackneyed the word the greater your doubting discomfiture. More disturbing in this matter of pronunciation than the celebrated fashionable preacher is the professional reciter. And more discomfiting even than the last-mentioned is the amateur ditto; for he or she does indeed talk a perfectly unique dialect, so far as mere pronunciation is concerned.

If we turn from these great examples to the people one meets in everyday life confusion is assuredly worse confounded. On the very threshold, not of language, but of the alphabet itself, difficulty besets one. For "a" is a stumbling-block. Jones is in the habit of talking of his "are'nt" (aunt); but the insect with him rhymes with "tant" in "tantamount." With Brown it is just vice versa. Jones and Brown heartily despise one another for these respective pronunciations. In fact, there is no contempt subtler than that which one feels for people who pronounce differently from oneself. One's likes and dislikes depend a great extent on trifles such as these. "Oh, I remember," we heard a rational man say the other day, "Smith's" the man who talks of the "Derby," as though the word were phonetically spelt. I do bar a man who says "Derby." With this consideration about "a" in one's head, one is afraid to talk of one's club in Pall Mall, for fear the person addressed should have recently adopted Pall Mall (to rhyme with "fal-lal"), or even "Pawl Mawl" as the correct pronunciation. One is afraid to ask for the pleasure of a "daance" when other people are talking of a "dance" (rhyming with "manse"). It is no consolation to reflect that "a" broad is Saxon, belonging as a sound to southern England, and that the lighter, more metallic "a," the "a" that approximates to "e" short is Angle, and is used by educated Yorkshiremen and Scots where their equally educated southern neighbours are in the habit of drawling a little. It is no consolation to reflect that much the same rule applies to "wh" and "s," which are far more insisted upon in educated pronunciation north of Humber than on the banks of Thames. Far from being consolatory, such a reflection sets one thinking on whether any particular county, or district, or town, can boast of the purest English pronunciation.

But it is hopeless speculating. The "English of London and Oxford"—their educated English of course—has been suggested by Mr. Marion Crawford, in one of his novels, as being the best pronounced of any. But, then, how about his own compatriots? How about the ladies and gentlemen from the States, who know for certain that "American!" is altogether purer in sound than English? How about Boswell's compatriot, the gentlemen with the plaid and the high cheek bones, and the knowledge of metaphysics? He is constantly telling us that the English, pure and undefiled, is not spoken out of the burgh of Pittenwallop, just as "wut" and cookery are not found within its walls either. How about the young lady from "Doblin," whose charming brogue-tinged speech is so justly held up to us as a model of pretty English? How about the numberless Welsh-speaking or Gaelic-speaking peasants, to whom our tongue is a foreign one, which they acquire with difficulty, and yet talk in many cases with the most perfect precision and the pleasantest little foreign accent? Nay, if it comes to that, are not English dialects quite as good, if not better, than the language of the lettered and the leisured? Yorkshire and "Zummerzitshire," Norfolk and Cockney, are at any rate far less corrupt and less subject to philological deterioration than the language of the educated. In other words, they have changed far less from the parent Angle and Saxon dialects than drawing-room English: they are ruder, more Teutonic or Scandinavian. Were Langland, or Alfred to revisit West Saxon, England, it is with the missers of aitches and the drawlers of "z's" that they would most easily hold converse. Shakespeare, according to some learned critics, would have recited his own plays very much as a modern Warwickshire ploughman would recite them. By parity of reasoning, Good Queen Bess of London town herself may have habitually missed aitches, as, indeed, cultivated Frenchmen do now; and honest 'Arry and Chorley' with their "osses" and "orspitals," their "clurks" (clerks) and their "cawfy" (coffee), may be talking in more Royal sixteenth century accents than we. All this being granted, who is right? Who does talk educated English.

The theory about bygone educated pronunciation and its subsequent evolution brings us to the question. When was a particular word properly pronounced? Setting aside the Elizabethans, and, indeed, limiting ourselves to the present century, we find numberless words, whereof the accent, if not the pronunciation, is in a fluid condition. "Ally" and "revenue" have been differently accented for at least eighty years. "Promontory" in Shelley often rhymes with "story." Other poets of his time rhyme similarly. Now had they the thoroughly modern trick of false accent, known to Rossetti and his followers, or did they really pronounce "history," "promontory" as though they rhymed with story? Who knows? The phonograph alone could have told us.

TELEGRAPHIC WEATHER REPORT.

Simla, Aug. 18.—The depression noticed yesterday has advanced from Burdwan on the north-westward to Benares, and pressure has consequently decreased; quickly in the North-West Provinces, and has also increased quickly in Bengal, Assam, Burma, and elsewhere. The changes are small and generally downward. Winds are cyclonic in the neighbourhood of the disturbance, blowing from the normal directions. Elsewhere monsoon is strong on both sides of India. Temperature is low, except in the Bombay Presidency, Rajputana, and Burma. Rain is general, except in Madras and the Punjab, where it is scattered. The amounts are not large generally.

CALCUTTA MICROSCOPICAL SOCIETY.

The second general meeting of the midsummer session of this society was held on Monday night. The proceedings of previous meetings having been read and confirmed, the president called on the honorary secretary for his review of the various periodicals received during the last month. We learn from one of these journals that a French savant has recently discovered that there are sixteen species of microbes in the healthy human stomach, and that they help in the process of digestion! One feature in the review which should serve an educational purpose is the reference to papers bearing on work in India, for, of course, the object of the Society is to encourage research among our local fauna and flora, the microscope being merely a means to that end, and not itself the end. We are glad to learn that the work of the society has been favourably noticed in some of the English and American journals recently received. Mr. E. J. Jones exhibited a petrological microscope manufactured by Swift, and embodying several improvements designed by Mr. Allan Dick. The improvements relate chiefly to the working of the polarising apparatus and other adjustments essential in the examination of crystals and rock sections. The instrument is the second of its kind which has been manufactured, and the society is to be congratulated on its vice-president having so soon brought to its notice improvements which have only just been patented at home. Mr. Jones also exhibited another novelty—a microscope lamp designed by Prof. Koch, in which all light is cut off except that which is conveyed through solid bent glass rods.

Mr. Simmons read his paper on the drawing and measuring of microscopic objects, which will shortly be reproduced by us. Some of its principal features, however, should be summarised in this notice. The subject necessarily had to be treated as a branch of applied optics, but as the methods and principles involved were simply and lucidly treated there was no difficulty in following the argument from point to point. We were shown how to measure down to fractional parts as small as the ten and twelve-thousandth of an inch. The relative merits of drawing and photography in the delineation of microscopic objects were also noticed, and while Mr. Simmons admitted that a good photograph was absolutely accurate, he argued that, as a discipline for correct observation, the first qualification of a real microscopist, photomicrography is inferior to drawing, and cannot be regarded as a substitute for it. This portion of the paper elicited considerable discussion, as three or four of the members who pay special attention to the photographic art did not seem inclined to accept Mr. Simmons' views, which, however, met with strong support from Prof. Wood-Mason. The accessories used in the drawing of microscopic objects struck us as being very much simpler and more handy than the delicate and rather cumbersome appliances necessary for photography, and several specimens which we have seen of good drawings made with the help of the microscope conveyed a more accurate knowledge of the micro-organisms delineated than was to be obtained from indifferent photographs. As Prof. Wood-Mason pointed out, a good photograph can only be obtained when the object is perfectly flat and lying in one place, conditions not always to be obtained in actual work. He also referred to the excellent illustrations in such periodicals as the Quarterly Journal of Microscopy, which are all made from drawings; and he pointed out that the tendency in microscopic art now is not to get such a fac-simile as is secured by photography, but a drawing built up of details. Photography, in his opinion, is of little use in biology, and he himself had never seen a really presentable photograph of bacteria. The point of the honorary secretary's paper, as Prof. Wood-Mason observed, was the splendid discipline which drawing imposed on the student, and the fact that it compels him to look into his object carefully.

Professor Wood-Mason followed with his note on the musical chingree (prawn) which has been found in the Bay of Bengal. The stridulating organs in this case are placed on a part of the body on which they have never before been observed. The series of notes which the Professor has presented to this society at its recent meeting on the stridulating organs of crustaceans are a valuable addition to our knowledge of the subject. Mr. Wood-Mason, some years ago, published a paper on the stridulating organs of the scorpion, which he was the first to discover and describe. At the close of the meeting the president called on members to contribute to the work of the meetings of the society, and we understand that next month Mr. Jones will take up the subject of measuring microscopic objects with what is known as the eye-piece micrometer. Practical demonstrations, such as these, when treated by specialists, like Mr. Jones, possess an educational value which we have no doubt is highly appreciated by the less advanced members of the society—Englishman.

EURASIAN CLERGY.

A correspondent writes to the Madras Mail:—A Madras clergyman, preaching on Sunday last in one of the local churches on behalf of "the Bishop's Fund for providing additional clergy in the diocese of Madras," referred to an objection brought against the management of the fund, viz., "that considerable expense is incurred in bringing out men from England who, after the expiration of the period of their engagement, either return to England or obtain Government chaplaincies, whereas the expense would be saved and other advantages gained by employing Eurasians or domiciled Europeans who would be content with lower salaries, would remain in the country, and would be familiar with the manners and customs of the people among whom they laboured." The desire of the Eurasian community to have an ordained Ministry from among themselves was, the preacher said, a noble one, "but," he pointedly asked, "Where are the men ready to offer themselves for ordination?" One of the objects, he reminded them, for which the committee of the A. C. F. is constituted is "to assign, if considered necessary out of the funds at their disposal, suitable allowances for the training of such men as the Bishop may recommend as likely to prove effecient clergymen." Referring to this object he asked "Where are the men, suited intellectually and spiritually ready to take advantage of it." So far as he knew none had as yet come forward. He felt sure if such men presented themselves they would be cordially received, and every consideration given to their application.

In view of the facts that at no very distant date Government chaplains will, in all probability, be withdrawn from all except military stations, and that consequently there will be a demand for men to supply their places on salaries not likely to induce men to come out from England, I think it would be a wise policy on the part of those who are interested in the formation of a Eurasian Ministry to endeavour to induce suitable young men to take advantage of the offer of the A. C. F., and put themselves in training for ordination. It is not to be expected, considering the large demand for clergy in

R. AND MRS. GLADSTONE'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

THURSDAY, 25th ult., was Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone's olden wedding-day. On that day, fifty years ago, awarden was gay with a very grand wedding. The wo "beautiful Misses Glynne" were to be married on the same day, and castle and village were given up to unbounded rejoicings. The elder of the two sisters was married to Mr. Gladstone, the younger to Lord Lyttelton. What was then a village festival has passed through fifty years of time into a national event. In Italy he is almost a national hero, and amongst the struggling populations of Eastern Europe and Western Asia his name is the symbol of English love of liberty and of English power to help the oppressed. On that day, fifty years ago, Mr. Gladstone was under thirty years of age, and it is recorded that Mrs. Gladstone was twenty-seven. She is, therefore, but some two years his junior. In the marriage register Mr. Gladstone is described as Member of Parliament for Newark, where he had sat for half-a-dozen years as the friend of Sir Robert Peel and the nominee of the Duke of Newcastle. Already he had held office as an Under-Secretary of State, and men pointed to him as destined to great things, and as the rising hope of the Tory party. One-half of that forecast has been fulfilled in ample measure, but the other has been strangely falsified. Nothing is more wonderful where there is so much that is wonderful in this long career than the unceasing growth and expansion of Mr. Gladstone's mind. It is this which marks him out from other statesmen who have been content to grow old. Lord Palmerston lived to a greater age than Mr. Gladstone has yet attained, and held power to the last, but long before then he had reached the limits of his political tether, and the world waited to move on till he should have passed away. But to Mr. Gladstone it would seem to have been given to carry forward to the limits of his age the privilege of youth—its elasticity, its hopefulness, its readiness to embark on new and great undertakings.

A PROPHECY.

Mr. Gladstone was the son of a plain Liverpool merchant (Mr. John Gladstone, his father, was made a baronet by Sir Robert Peel in 1845), and had for grandfather a corn-dealer in Leith. It was no great match, one would have said, for the eldest daughter of Sir Stephen Glynne of Hawarden, Miss Glynne and her sister were known in society as "the handsome Miss Glynnes," and it is said that when they first came out, their friends were inclined to look down upon any suitor who could not offer a peerage. If the story is true what first attracted Miss Glynne's attention to Mr. Gladstone was a remark made by a Minister who sat beside her at a dinner party at which Mr. Gladstone was also present. "Mark that young man," said the Minister, "he will yet be Prime Minister of England." Miss Glynne keenly scrutinised the expressive features of the young Member of Parliament who sat opposite, but it was not until the subsequent winter that she made his acquaintance in Italy—an acquaintance which speedily ripened into affection. Among those present at the wedding was Sir Francis Doyle, who acted as Mr. Gladstone's best-man, and afterwards wrote some verses on the theme of "The Sister Brides."

A REMARKABLE AND UNIQUE ALBUM.

The commemorative album to be presented to Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone at the National Liberal Club, as a gift from the members, in celebration of their golden wedding, is a unique type of that form of testimonial. The artists who have combined in its production, virtually as a labour of love, are Mr. Marcus Stone, R.A.; Mr. J. MacWhirter, A.R.A.; Mr. A. Parsons, R.I.; Mr. Arthur Severn, R.I.; Mr. H. Holiday, Mr. Walter Crane, and Mr. Lewis F. Day. The covers, which are 22in. by 16in., are of golden brown crushed morocco, tooled in gold with emblematic device by Mr. Lewis Day, and it bears on the top the words, "William Ewart and Catherine Gladstone, A.D. 1839"; and at the bottom, "A. D. 1889, National Liberal Club." The congratulatory address is brief, and in it controversial politics are almost entirely avoided; it is distributed over five pages, the bulk of the space on each being taken up by the work of the artists abovenamed. The frontispiece is a beautiful half figure by Mr. Marcus Stone, typifying freedom; and it may here be stated that all the pictorial contributions are water-colour, and that the ornamental designs throughout are upon a gold background. The first page, by Mr. Lewis Day, is a general rehearsal, by the medium of a scroll taking the form of a capital G of the works in which Mr. Gladstone, as the foremost statesman of the age, has taken part. Wreaths around the parent stem give the names of all the children of the distinguished couple for whom this work of art has been made ready.

A HISTORIC RECORD.

On the mid-rib of the leaves of the scroll will be found reminders of the Income-tax Budget and Succession Duties Act, and at Free Trade that particular branch stops. Another, however, tends in a different direction, arriving at the Oxford University Act (with the arms of Oxford), the French Treaty (with the lion and eagle), the abolition of the paper duties (symbolised by the People's Edition of Walter Scott. Mr. Gladstone's favourite author), the Ballot Act, Abolition of Purchase, Alabama Arbitration (with a ship symbolical of that notorious ocean incendiary), Educational, Agricultural Holdings, Employers' Liability, Corrupt Practices (introducing the famous axe), and Franchise Acts. Home Rule is accentuated by the Irish Harp crowned with the cap of liberty. This symbolic scroll starts with the tender green of youth, and proceeds upwards through a gradation of colours to the rich russet of autumn. This is the page which contains the commencement of the address, and the initial "O" for "On behalf" is charmingly foliated, and bears the names of the constituencies represented by Mr. Gladstone, with the dates. On the next page Mr. A. Parsons presents a fine drawing of Hawarden Castle, with a good deal of young tracken in the foreground. Below, there are two oblong landscapes in grisaile, of more ornamental character. The subjects are the old castle of Hawarden, with the Gladstone shield underneath; and Hawarden Church, with wild rose and foliage balancing the coat of arms on the opposite side of the page.

A CLASSICAL ALLEGORY.

Mr. Holiday takes possession of the third page, indicating by delightful allegory the debt laid upon Mr. Gladstone by the study of Homer and Dante, and the manner in which some portion of the debt has been paid by his exertions on behalf of modern Greece and Italy. The emblematic figures include Poetry, Art, &c., and Homer and Dante are conspicuous on either side, surrounded by a vast amount of miniature detail that makes one think of an old Italian missal. We have the lily, too, for Italy, and the acanthus for Greece, and in an upper corner the following lines are emblazoned:—

Sea-girt Britannia! by thy silver streak
Rude clangorous war is barred, while peace benign
Unhindered floats with brotherhood divine,
Bringing to thee such wealth as true men seek.
Hellas and Italy with incense rare
The ages perfumed, and to thy blest shore
Of priceless gifts have sent a bounteous store.
Hast thou essayed with these thy wealth to share?
Thy objects good, by brave sons earned and watched.
Is liberty, which Turk and Bourbon snatched
From children of those lands of deathless song.
To succour these has been the work of one
To whom their song is dear, thy greatest son—
The friend of the oppressed, the foe of wrong.

A grand view of Edinburgh, as seen through the gloaming, from St. Anthony's Chapel, has been painted by Mr. MacWhirter on page 4; and below it is a smaller drawing, by Mr. A. Severn, of the Houses of Parliament, as we used to see them from the spot upon which the National Liberal Club now stands, before there was an Embankment, and when the boats used to lie on a muddy foreshore. Both artists have, as it happened, invested their sketches with striking evening effects. On page 5 Mr. Walter Crane pourtrays the last phase of Mr. Gladstone's public life, in a series of sketches illustrating the distresses of Ireland. This superb album is being bound by Riviere & Co., of Hadden Street, and the writing was done by Mr. R. Cowtan.

GIFTS AND CONGRATULATION.

A London correspondent says:—A vast number of congratulatory letters and telegrams, besides many presents, were sent to Mr. and Mrs. Gladstone to-day in recognition of their golden wedding day. A painting, by Sir John Millais, representing the venerable statesman seated in an arm-chir, with his arm around his grandson William, is presented from English, Scotch, Welsh, and Irish women. Mr. William Agnew made the presentation. On returning from eight o'clock service at St. Peter's Chapel in the morning, Mr. Gladstone found the portrait hanging in his morning room. Mr. Agnew who was present, explained to the right honourable gentleman that this was a presentation to himself and Mrs. Gladstone. Though the right honourable gentleman had been sitting to Sir J. E. Millais, he had no idea for what purpose the portrait was being painted. The likeness is remarkably good, and the portrait is the result of subscriptions among persons in all classes of society, from the highest to the humblest. A tablet on the frame bears the following inscription:—

Early in the morning Mr. Gladstone received a telegram from the Queen, congratulating him and Mrs. Gladstone. The Prince and Princess of Wales sent a similar message. All Mr. Gladstone's family were present at breakfast at James's Street, except Mrs. Drew and Mr. William H. Gladstone. Among other valuable presents received, a gold inkstand of elegant design was sent by the Prince and Princess of Wales. The family gift takes the form of a new portico, to be erected at Hawarden Castle. There are also bracelets and jewellery for Mrs. Gladstone, albums, gold cups, silver ewers, and many household requisites and ornaments. Mr. Gladstone was in excellent health and spirits, and took great interest in the letters, messages, and presents. There has been an almost constant succession of callers, the visitors including Sir William Harcourt and most of the members of the late Cabinet, Sir Francis Knollys on behalf of the Prince of Wales, the Earl and Countess of Aberdeen, Mr. Osborne Morgan, &c.

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician to the Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.
"I have convinced myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted, in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod Liver Oil, that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."
JOSEPH J. POPE, Esq., M.R.C.S.,
Late Staff Surgeon, Army, Professor of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution, London.
"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL remained unchanged by tropical heat or foreign climate, and it was, from its uniformity of character, particularly adapted for long-continued administration. The value of 'hydro-carbons' in all debilitated states of the system is now becoming thoroughly recognized; and it is, without doubt, from the animal oils and fats, rather than from their vegetable substitutes, that we may hope to derive the surest benefit. The Oil of DR. DE JONGH places in everyone's reach a reliable and valuable remedy, one that cannot be too widely recognized."
DR. R. C. CROFT,
Author of "Handbook for the Nursery."
"DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL is almost a specific in many of the Diseases peculiar to Infancy and Childhood, and I have seen marked benefit produced by its use. Patients prefer it to the Pale Oils, and are able to retain it more comfortably."
WITHOUT THESE MARKS NONE CAN POSSIBLY BE GENUINE.
Sold by all respectable Chemists, Druggists, and Storekeepers throughout the World.

SAD BUT TRUE.
THE HISTORY OF MANKIND CONVINCES US

That disasters are in reality stepping stones for higher progress. To prevent disastrous diseases from poisoned blood, use
ENO'S "FRUIT SALT."
No one can have a simpler and more efficient remedy. By its use the poison is thrown off, and the blood restored to its healthy condition by natural means. I used my FRUIT SALT freely in my last attack of Fever, and I have every reason to say it saved my life.—J. C. ENO.
Instead of being lowering to the system, ENO'S "FRUIT SALT" is in the highest degree Invigorating. Its effect in relieving thirst, giving tone to the system, and aiding digestion is MOST STRIKING.
NO TRAVELLER SHOULD LEAVE HOME without a supply of ENO'S "FRUIT SALT," for by its use the most dangerous forms of fevers, blood poisons, &c., are prevented and cured. It is in truth a Family Medicine Chest in the simplest yet most potent form. It has a natural action on the organs of digestion, absorption, circulation, respiration, secretion and excretion, and removes all impurities, and hinders (by natural means) the unnatural and dangerous accumulation of fat. It keeps the body in healthy trim, by preserving and restoring health.
HEADACHE AND DISORDERED STOMACH.—"After suffering for years from severe headache and disordered stomach, and after trying almost everything without any benefit, I was recommended your 'FRUIT SALT,' and before I had finished one bottle I found it doing me a great deal of good, now I am restored to my usual health; and others I know that have tried it have not enjoyed such good health for years.—Yours most truly, ROBERT HUMPHREYS, Post Office, Barrasford."
THE ATLAS MOUNTAINS (MOROCCO), NORTH AFRICA.—Mr. Harold Crichton-Browne, in a letter from the Atlas Mountains, says:—"The Kaid of Demnet treated us so well that we desired, on leaving, to make him some acknowledgment, and presented him with . . . . a bottle of ENO'S 'FRUIT SALT,' with which he was much pleased."—The World, September 12, 1888.
SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHER SALINES.—"Dear Sir,—Having been in the habit of taking your 'FRUIT SALT' for many years, I think it only right to tell you that I consider it a most invaluable medicine, and far superior to all other saline mixtures. I am never without a bottle of it in the house, as I find it possesses three most desirable qualities, namely, it is pleasant to the taste, promptly efficacious, and leaves no unpleasant after-effects.—A DEVONSHIRE LADY.—Jan. 25, 1889."
CAUTION.—Legal Rights are protected in every civilized country. Examine each bottle and see that the Capsule is marked ENO'S "FRUIT SALT." Without it you have been imposed on by a WORTHLESS IMITATION. Sold by all Chemists, &c. Prepared only at

SOMETHING QUITE NEW FROM ENGLAND
Of Special Interest to European Residents
Protected by HER MAJESTY'S Royal Letters Patent.

Possesses HYGIENIC PROPERTIES hitherto unknown to Science.
Upwards of Fifty Patents, Registrations, and Trade Marks have been secured for this wonderful discovery, protecting the INVENTOR'S RIGHTS in every civilised country.
An Invention that will revolutionise the existence of European Residents in India, and prove an unmistakable blessing to European and Native alike.
The name of this latest, and perhaps one of the greatest discoveries of this or any age, is SALT REGAL; and the following is a brief description of its claims to popularity generally, and its peculiar fitness for India in particular.
SALT REGAL is a high-class Antiseptic Saline, in the form of a delicate white powder, scientifically compounded, which instantly produces in water a Beautiful Rose-coloured effervescing, antiseptic, Saline Draught, most refreshing and exhilarating.
SALT REGAL has the special property of purifying the water it is dissolved in, at the same time developing Ozone (the principle of life).
SALT REGAL is a powerful antidote to and preventive of Feverishness, Acidity, General Debility, Sour Stomach, Flatulence, Nausea, and Giddiness.
SALT REGAL is a powerful antidote to and preventive of Blood Poisoning, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Irritation of the Skin, Weariness, Lassitude, Headache, and for all purposes for which Saline preparations have hitherto been used.
SALT REGAL corrects all Impurities in the System, whether arising from breathing heated or tainted air, or partaking of improperly cooked food.
Corrects all errors of Diet, eating or drinking.
SALT REGAL acts as an instant purifier, each draught liberating a supply of a powerful antiseptic.
SALT REGAL is a Natural Disinfectant. It removes all bad humours from the body, and renders it proof against infection of every kind.
SALT REGAL taken daily will resist the deadly attacks of Typhoid, Malaria, Cholera, and Epidemics of the most virulent type.
SALT REGAL prevents disease by giving tone and purity to the system.
Is a Health-giver.
Is a Health-maintainer.
Is a Health-restorer.
SALT REGAL, upon its merits alone, has obtained a considerable sale, and it is no boasting to say that it supersedes all other Salines.
SALT REGAL dislodges all impurities in the system, and allows them to pass harmlessly away with the excreta.
Renders the terrible scourge of Diphtheria in old or young an impossibility.
SALT REGAL renders harmless Bactriæ and Microbes that may be taken into the system accidentally with food or drink.
Insures against Cholera.
Prevents Dyspepsia.
Purifies Drinking Water.
SALT REGAL cleanses and disinfects the human alimentary organs, and it is impossible to give an adequate idea of its marvellous power of good in the short space of an advertisement.
SALT REGAL will do what no other Saline preparation in existence can do.
By regular use is a certain guarantee of Health.
Taken regularly makes good Feeders.
SALT REGAL taken regularly makes good Workers.
Taken regularly makes good Sleepers.
Makes Life enjoyable.
SALT REGAL —One draught per week to the Healthy will keep them in Health.
—A daily draught to the Debilitated will restore and maintain Health.
SALT REGAL is invaluable for use in Families.
Children are very fond of it.
SALT REGAL renders Pills, Potions, and Physic unnecessary.
Is a high-class Saline, and has been approved by the most Scientific Chemists of the age.
SALT REGAL destroys the Parasites which infest drinking water used in India. Anyone doubting this statement is invited to make the test with the aid of a good microscope. (See Analysis.)
CERTIFICATE OF LATEST ANALYSIS.
Institute of Chemical Technology and Analytical Laboratory.
Liverpool, 13th Feb. 1888.
Messrs. FRITZ & Co.,
Dear Sirs,—In accordance with your request I have carefully tested the action of your "SALT REGAL" on the different organisms found in impure waters, and find that it exerts a directly destructive action on most of them, whilst with others its effect is to reduce their vitality, consequently it should prove very useful in the prevention and treatment of diseases arising from the use of impure waters and the breathing of impure air.
A. NORMAN TATE, F.I.C., F.C.S., &c., Analyst.
SALT REGAL is indispensable to all who are away from home, and no Traveller or Voyageur should venture without it.
